Dear ATA Members:

In my first two months as your President & CEO, I’ve immersed myself in the industry and organization, listening to and learning from our members, industry leaders and staff. I’m looking forward to continuing my visits with many ATA members and hearing how we can better serve you.

With the following wins we’ve seen in the last year, our industry has plenty to be optimistic about:

- Unprecedented levels of demand for our members’ products and services,
- Record-breaking FET earnings,
- Vast industry support for the Recovering America’s Wildlife Act, and
- A cumulative total of $954,745 awarded to the ATA in Multi State Grants

Your ATA continues to work with like-minded partner organizations to move the needle on legislative issues that are important to the industry and your ATA staff remains steadfast in growing programming and outreach efforts to attract more people to archery.

It was encouraging to host the in-person ATA Show in January - for the first time in two years - bringing ATA members together for on-site order-writing and networking and a renewed camaraderie of being face-to-face again.

In my first year with the ATA, I look forward to building on the positive momentum that has been gained thus far and with the help of you, our members, I feel optimistic that the ATA will continue to grow and preserve the sports we all love.

ATA announced exciting changes for certification at the ATA Trade Show. The 2022 ATA Show offered hybrid online and in-person instructor certification Level 1, Level 2 and — for the first time in Show history — Level 3 courses. Instructor certification boosts your marketing value, provides your staff valuable skills and knowledge, and gives your store access to Explore Archery and Junior Olympic Archery Development programs that attract and engage new archers.

ATA’s Resource Library got a digital transformation. Formerly named the Resource Website, the Resource Library has been relocated to the membership tab on the ArcheryTrade.org website. Now members can simply use their MyATA member dashboard login credentials to access the free resources.
ATA discussed the Recovering America’s Wildlife Act in online communication to members—legislation that provides proactive funding used to address the needs of over 12,000 species in need of conservation assistance. This legislation would appropriate about $1.4 billion annually to fund projects nationwide that support each state’s wildlife action plan.

ATA staff shared Conservation Initiative resources with the Nebraska Hunting, Fishing and Shooting Sports R3 Summit held in Lincoln, Nebraska. Conservation Initiative resources were created to show the impact our industry has on conserving wildlife management.

ATA staff provided resources to the R3 Committee meeting held in conjunction with the Midwest Association of Fish and Wildlife Agencies Conference. Recruitment, retention and reactivation: “R3” continues to be an important mission in the industry.

ATA staff provided input on the R3 Technical Review Team. Multistate grant full proposals were scored to determine which to put forward for funding.

ATA joined a coalition of 35 wildlife organizations representing more than 4.5 million hunter-conservationists at the 20th annual meeting of the American Wildlife Conservation Partners in Missoula, Montana. The AWCP was formed for the purpose of building unity, identifying key wildlife issues and developing a vision for wildlife in the 21st century and beyond.

ATA promoted conservation efforts by encouraging members to join “2% for Conservation.” The campaign encourages individuals to donate 1% of their time and 1% of their money toward conservation and get a lot in return.

ATA informed members about the 30x30 goal. The Hunt Fish 30x30 Coalition, comprising over 54 hunting and fishing organizations, provides recommendations to U.S. agencies for the America the Beautiful initiative, which hopes to conserve 30% of land and water resources across the globe by 2030.

ATA created the Archery World Cup Kit designed to promote the World Archery Championships and World Cup Final that took place in South Dakota, giving ATA members an opportunity to promote and capitalize on competition archery.

ATA staff presented on its desire to create and enhance urban ranges at the Southeastern Association of Fish and Wildlife Agencies meeting and R3 Committee meeting. This annual conference is a forum for the exchange of ideas and critical information regarding the management and protection of fish and wildlife.

ATA YEAR IN REVIEW

Bowhunters United was relaunched.
BU, a national consumer-facing bowhunting organization, relaunched with new membership levels, a new mission statement, a user-friendly website and a yearlong membership sweepstakes.

Bowhunters United partnered with Wolfpack Racing and FeraDyne Outdoors. BU was front and center during NASCAR’s Sparks 300 at Talladega Superspeedway. The #47 Mike Harmon Racing Chevrolet driven by Kyle Weatherman displayed BU brand colors and decals.
ATA shared, in online communication with membership, the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service’s recent announcement regarding 2.1 million acres of federal public lands now available to hunters and anglers. This decision is in line with the America the Beautiful initiative, a voluntary and locally led nationwide effort to conserve, connect and restore 30% of lands and waters by 2030, and complements the 2020 opening of 2.3 million acres of federal lands. That was the single largest expansion of hunting and fishing opportunities by the USFWS in history.

The archery industry set a new all-time-high FET contribution record at $65.9 million in a single fiscal year. The ATA receives updates regarding federal excise tax collections from the IRS each quarter. These reports are available exclusively to ATA members. Pat yourself on the back! After breaking a record last quarter, the archery industry did it again by setting a new all-time-high FET contribution.

ATA announced plans to give away $20K to retailers that attend the 2022 ATA Trade Show. Any ATA-member retailer who registered for the Show by Friday, Dec. 17, and attended the Show on Buyer Day, Friday, Jan. 7, was automatically entered to win a cash prize. The ATA gave away a total of $20,000 split between 11 retailers.

Here’s the breakdown:
1 Retailer: $10,000
10 Retailers: $1,000 ea.

At the Northeastern Association of Fish and Wildlife Agencies R3 Committee meeting, ATA staff introduced the “Call for Projects” to provide a place to collect information on emerging archery range plans. One of NEAFWA’s many objectives is to assist in the coordination and implementation of fish and wildlife programs of mutual interest to its members.

At the Society of Outdoor Professionals conference, ATA staff presented on our work to grow archery in urban spaces as well as the resources available to outdoor professionals that are interested in adding archery programming to their communities.

December 2021
ATA Board of Directors named Jeff Poole as the new CEO. Poole brings 29 years of National Rifle Association leadership experience to the position and is eager to start his new role with the ATA on Jan. 24. Poole looks forward to gathering stakeholder feedback and will include their opinions when making decisions to ensure the industry is on the best path forward. He believes the industry is poised to emerge from COVID-19-related challenges and is grateful to lead the Association and its members to new beginnings.

ATA hosted a well-attended Connections: An ATA Happy Hour, brought to you by Outdoor Sportsman Group. This event debuted at the 2020 Trade Show. It encourages attendees to network with retailers, manufacturers, ATA staff and like-minded business professionals over beer, food, games and entertainment.

ATA Announced the 2022 Best in Show and Impact Award Winners during Connections: An ATA Happy Hour. The ATA recognized two individuals and three organizations in its Impact Awards program. Additionally, three products in the Featured Product Showcase won an award and six products received awards through the New Product Launch Showcase.

ATA supported the National Archery Buyers Association at its Western Trade Show co-located with the Vegas Shoot in Las Vegas, Nevada. This show brings together a buying group of quality archery dealers with industry manufacturers to achieve the best wholesale pricing.

The 2022 ATA Trade Show was one for the books. Despite COVID-19 concerns and last minute cancellations, ATA members in attendance experienced a positive return to hosting a successful, in-person event and shared an optimistic outlook for the year ahead. Overall, the Show drew 4,302 individuals. Buyers from 548 retail accounts took to the Show floor to interact with over 450 exhibitors.
The first-ever drawing was held for the Bowhunters United Sweepstakes. Seventeen lucky winners received prizes including but not limited to: hunting trips, a UTV, an e-bike, targets and bows.

ATA promoted Bowhunters United at the Great American Outdoor Show in Harrisburg, Pennsylvania. The Great American Outdoor Show is the world’s largest outdoor recreation show and expo.

In online communication to members, ATA’s Dan Forster highlighted information and bowhunting data outlined in the National Deer Association’s "Deer Report 2022." This is the first time the NDA has compiled and published bowhunting participation and harvest numbers in the report, which is great news for ATA members.

February 2022
ATA announced the Board of Directors Election Results.
Voters in the 2022 Archery Trade Association Board of Directors election retained a current Board member and installed two first-time Board members.

James McGovern, vice president of Rinehart Targets; Matthew Smith, president of SYKD Hunt; and Aaron Lucky, president of Easton Technical Products, Inc. were all elected by their peers during the recent election held Jan. 31 to March 1.

ATA joined 44 other Hunt Fish 30x30 organizations to submit formal recommendations to the Biden administration concerning the “America the Beautiful” initiative. The recommendations urge the Administration to identify the lands and waters considered to be “conserved” based on conservation outcomes rather than arbitrary criteria. The groups also highlight the importance of working with entities such as state fish and wildlife management agencies, regional fish and wildlife management authorities, tribes, conservation focused NGOs and private landowners who are most knowledgeable and best equipped to advance pragmatic and successful conservation efforts throughout the U.S.

ATA staff joined hundreds of colleagues during the 87th annual (hybrid) North American Wildlife and Natural Resources Conference, participating in a host of activities including the Association of Fish and Wildlife Agencies, the American Wildlife Conservation Partners, the Boone and Crockett Club, R3, education, federal excise tax, and wildlife health meetings.

ATA announced a call for projects to find range opportunities and facilitate funding.
Your ATA is passionate about helping communities build archery ranges and create programs that introduce new archers to next-step opportunities like bowhunting and bowfishing.
